terone but Very Trencherous Joke. The Irish Exedus-Vant Outpouring of Emi-The following is a passage from a remarka-ble statement in the Cork Statement, bearing upon the continued flight of the population from that part alone to the newly adopted land of the Irish Celvic race:

An ingenious Parisian stationer, who, for some years past, has taken up his abode at Shanghai, has returned to Paris, bringing with him a curious Chinese invention. This extraordinary discovery consists of the composition of a paper which can be made to last as long as one wishes by the use of a water or esu magigue. The paper must be prepared beforehand by some means known only by the buyer and seller, and that is estarrated with the watet, which is coloriese tasteless and scentiese. The length of time that one desires the paper to last is regulated by the introduction of pure water to weaken the effect. For instance, if the paper is to be decomposed within mx days, the can magigue is put on without adulteration; if a month, a certain quantity of pure water is to be used. With this paper, then, the wily Chinese write their billet-down, taking care, however, that the corrosive water sind their passions shall be of the same weight. The water is called Divine Ink and the paper Exquisite Prudence. If Divine Ink and Exquisite Prudence, take up their permanent abode in civilized countries, what a death blow it will be to all breaches of promise suits, which, for the mest part, at least, are founded on love letters, written promises, &c. And then again, how many persons would sign promissory notes knowing that thanks to their e cre-divine, their signatures would soon disappear; in fact, such an invention is a most dangerous one, reversing the present order of things, and opening a wide field for rascality. land of the Irish Celtic race.

Bach week sees the departure on an average of 800 persons, the great majority of whom are young men and women between eighteen and twenty years of age. To imagine the effect of this drain upon the community, we might instance that if these 600 were drawn from a town like that of Bentry, there would hardly be a young man or woman left in it. The actual numbers are greater than the population of many large villages, and a fortnight's draught at that rate would utterly depopulate so considerable a town as Millatreet. Remembering that almost every one of these persons rate would utterly depopulate so considerable a town as Millstreet. Remembering that almost every one of these persons is of condition to be of actual value to the community—the men as farm laborers or mechanics, the women, either in agricultural labor as servants, or, still more important, as the healthy mothers of strong children, it is easy to conceive how terrible is the loss to the country. Nothing can impress the fact upon the mind so strongly, as actually witnessing the crowd preparing for their departure. Among the entire there is not an indication of squalor or missery—not a single ray on the back of its owner indicates that he or she is flying from poverty, not a week limb or a pale chek—accacely a wrinkled face indicates that the country is getting rid of a burden. Sturdy, athletic young men, healthy and strong girls—often of extraordinary beauty—form the great bulk of this departing crowd. And on Thursday week we witnessed no less than four hundred such prepairing to take their departure in the Edinburg Capt. Kennedy—one of the vessels of the Liverpool, New York and Philadelphia line. A rumor had spread shortly before the arrival of the ship that a certain number would be excluded for want of accommodation, and the despair evinced by those who thought themselves shut out was as great as if they were told they had lost every hope. When the tenders came to bear away the passengers there was a frantic rush even on the part of those whose places were secured, as if they funcied that some unlucky interposition would shut them out. The news that all could be taken was received as if some precious gifts had been showered among them. SINGULAR EFFECTS OF LIGHTSING—A GREAT SINGULAR EFFECTS OF LIGHTSING—A GREAT TAME SHIVERED TO PIECES.—A few days since a flash of lightning struck a silver pine-tree, which was estimated to be a hundred feet high and over two feet in diameter, upon the lawn of Mr. De Peyster, at Tivoli, N. Y. This tree was only twenty paces from very extensive stables, coach-houses, &c., and fifty from the house. The employes at work in various places felt the effects of the shock, which shattered the tree from the top to the hottom, splitting the greater parts of it into fragments fit for firewood. Some of it was splintered as if it had been twisted by an imnense power, and in places it was blackened as if by the effect of powder. That the buildings (which were supplied with a number of lightning-rods) escaped seems providential. The lightning struck, it is said, in two other places within the distance of a mile.

The Peetic Side of Married Life Exposed—A Wealthy Distiller Sues for Divorce for Various and Safficient Reasons.

John Walton, a wealthy distiller in New York, recently brought suit against Blien M. Walton for divorce, on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment, which rendered it unsafe for the husband to live with his wife. By the complant it appeared that the plainting was a wealthy distiller in Twenty-fifth-street, his residence being in Twenty-fifth-street, hat the time of the marriage the lady was a boarding-house keeper, who, according to herstatement, had been deprived of both her partners by death. She represented that she had three sons, two of whom were the children of her first husband, effers, and the third was the child of her second husband, Captain Russell. The also stated that she had a little girl in the country, an adopted niece.

The plaintiff claimed that the lady had made false representations to him; that instead of being married twice she had been married three times; and that, according to bils belief, the second husband, who was named Morrison, was yet living in the State of Ohio. The niece was no niece, but her own child, the offspring of a man named Yelouton. The plaintiff then alleged that the defendant was a lady of strong passions, and had repeatedly threatened him, that she insulted his friends; that her son, with her cousent, brought improper company to his house; and that the lady herself kept improper company, and went to houses of questionable repute.

Firs in an Onio Town.—A fire occurred at Mansfield, on Friday, by which five stables, the property of L. C. Northrop, M. L. Miller, J. P. Rowley, L. B. Matson, and one Heldoman were burnt. Loss considerable; cause unknown. A man named Baer was severely injured by being accidentally struck in the face with the pole of a fire hook. CREEBRATION OF THE FOURTH AT JOHN sown's Home.-A letter in the Burlington Free Press states that a grand demonstration is to be made at North Elba, in this State. over the grave of old John Brown, on the Fourth of July next. The letter says: Modesh Marsiage in Boston.—Mr. Brimmer, son of Ex-Mayor Brimmer, and Miss Trimmins, both members of the upper range of fashionable society in Boston, were married recently. St. Paul's Church was crowded with the wealth and beauty of Boston. The fair bride lost her "Trimmins," but consoled herself with a "Brimmer."

The great rock overlooking his grave is to be used on that day as a temporary pulpit, from which a funeral oration will be pronounced by the eloquent Rev. Luther Lee, D. D., of Chigrin Falls, Ohio. I learn, too, that Wendell Phillips, Rev. H. H. Garnett, and other distinguished public speakers, are expected to be present on the occasion. Numerous friends of the enslaved from Massachusetts, Vermont and Ohio, have signified their intention to participate in the celebration.

A Provitable Excavation.—As a man named John Murray, of Abbeyside, Dungar-vab, was engaged in a sort of excavation out-side his premises, near the old Augustinian Church, he discovered a piece of gold weigh-led these reasons and bur ounces, estimated A TENNESSEE FIRM RUNS AWAY FROM ITS CARDITORS.—Arnold & Bro., dealers in mil-linery goods at Memphis, Tenn., recently dis-posed of their entire stock in trade at a ruin-ous sacrifice, and one day last week took French leave of their reeditors, to whom they were indebted for about $10,000.

NESS.—The Boston authorities are about to give the privilege of opening the streets and laying gas pipes to a second company, so as to have competition. The first company re-sist the granting of this privilege.

HANS ANDERSON AS AN AUTHOR ONCE MORE. After a long silence, Hans Christian Anderson appears in the list of authors. A new work by him, relating to his native country, The Sand Hills of Sutland, and other Tales, is in press by Mr. Bently, and will be eagerly looked for by readers of all ages. A MAN SEVERELT CHASTERD IN A COURTHOUSE.—Thomas Warrenton was fined $10 in Heliphis, Tenn., a few days ago, for using insulting language to the wife of Officer Witt of that place. As the undeted defendant was leaving the court-room, he encountered the indignant husband, who, without needless ceramony, proceeded to belabor him with a stick, most vigorously. Warrenton retreated into the court-room, followed by Witt, who present. suty.—A little daughter of Wm. Baird, a farmer, hung herself a day or two since in her father's woodshed, near Sing Sing. N. Y. It is supposed that she was swinging by a rope, when her head caught by some means at the locar end.

Destrictive Fram in Instant.—One of the most alarming and destructive fires that has ever occurred in Belfast, broke out in the wholesale warehouse of Alderman Mullin, situated in Victoria-street, and before it was subdued buildings and other property to the value of about £15,000 were consumed. A New Buss Offaron.—A new oratorical light has just appeared in England. Mr. T. Mason Jones is drawing crowds to Willie's Rooms to hear an oration on Lord Macaulay. As might be guessed, a priori. Mr. Jones is a young Irishman of remarkable disency, who is said to add the results of reading and reflection to the charm of a clear, strong and maladious voice, and orident sincerity and enthusiasm on his subject. Among a population so fearful and suspicious of "clap-trap" in every shape as the middle classes of English society, the success of this species of catestainment is remarkable, and would seem to august genuius talent. The American Engine Rowing March.— Joshua Ward, the American champion consuman, has gone into training for the contem-lated race with the Engishman. He prom-ses, at the end of a month, to pull a drag-sherry fourteen miles without stopping. ABREST OF A MAIL ROSSES.—A short time since, a clerk in the Postofice at Caledonia, Ganada West, the son of a clergyman, rubbed the mail of a letter containing $250. He was arrested in Portland, Mains, whether he had fied, and returned to Canada.

Linewat Bestmert Mrn. A. Holling, of Lynchburg, Va., has recently given $11,000 to Hollins institute, Botetourt Springs, Va., which, with hor gifts in previous years, and the gift of $5,000 by her husband during his life, makes the sum of $17,500.

Smiler and the Lieuvershie Mosquite.

We have had, says the New Orleans Orescenduring our chequared existence, considerable acquaintance with the mosquite family. We have meet them in battle array while furnish through swamps. We have encountered the bold attack of the pine-woods gallinipper and the insidious, notseless surprise of the little black miscreant of the Gulf Reys, by we have never seen equaled the blood-thirst pertinactly and mallicous activity of a specimen that came under our attention very recently.

It was just after dark, and our friend Smiler was trying to smooze off the effects of a champagne tasting, in which he had been pare magna. We were coally ensonced in a retired corner, entirely hidden from the vision of said Smiler, who, with arms crossed on the desk before him, and head resting on them, had succeeded in giving two, or three respectable snores, when we heard the rather profame ejaculation, "d—n that mosquito."

Another desperate effort at repose was quickly interrupted by a sharp slap at some object invisible to us.

Third Effort—This terminated in something that appeared to us like a suppressed start, checked down into a shiver. Smiler lifted his head, and gently, passed one hand along his cheek, as though removing some assailant which he did not wish to irritate by further violence. We could almost see on his face the glow of conscious philosophy rewarded for its patience, as he once more settled down for the Fourth Effort—This had hardly begun when Smiler leaped to his feet, and putting his hand into his pocket drew forth—a hand-kerchief. Whip, whip, whip, it went in every direction around the head of its proprietor. That party, after trying to stand and fight it out, found such a posture inconvenient, for some reason or other, and sank down into his chair. He remained on guard, however, for a moment or two, with occasional cuts at the atmosphere, when drowniness bowed him down to his former recumbent position. It was but for a moment, how ever. A groan. Smiler sits straight up and seems to resign himself to his fate. Suddenly a bright idea seizes him, and having arranged the handkerchief around his head in a masterly manner, and inserted each hand into the cuff of the other sleeve, he settled down to the ranged the handkerchief around his head in a masterly manner, and inserted each hand into the cuff of the other sleeve, he settled down to the Fifth Effort—Pretty good effort this time, but there were evidently some vulnerable points in the defense, if I could judge from occasional shiftings of the head from side to side. Moreover, the confined breathing seemed to become oppressive, and presently the American champion withdrew from the struggle and took a long breath.

"Weil you infernal Indian blood-sucker, you," said Smiler, "Aint you satisfied yet? You can hold more blood than a leech." Whip, whip, with the handkerchief. "If it wasn't out of respect for your drinking powers, I would break your darned little neck, you spotted hyens." Whip, whip, whip. "If I could drink as much as you in proportion, I'd go back and finish that champage, but four or five bottles begin to effect my head."

Here the reflection naturally soothed Smiler's handkerchief into momentary repose, while his issue inclined toward his breast. It was an unguarded moment of which the enemy must have taken advantage, for our friend struck out wildly, and then exclaimed, with bitterness, "Yes, you sly, sneaking little devil; you can't sing like a common, honest masquito, eb, and give a man a chance? But, I'll be up to you."

Here Mr. Smiler deposited his handkerchief on the desk and cautiously raised one hand to the vicinity of his face. He sat for a moment, and then—slap, went the fand with tremendous force on his check. Smiler gased round for a moment with the wild, fronted gate of a man who can stand no more, when, selving a ruler, he sprang up to assault the enemy. Unfortunately, his impetus was too great for his balancing powers, and down he came, chair and all, with a great crush. We hurried to his assistance, and after in vain arguing that instead of one moequito there were clouds of them persecuting him we sufficiently mollified his resentment to get him off to the refuge of a mosquito bar.

Next morning, as Smiler was coming down town, the nurses with babies fled in alarm from the man with the measies.

The great rock overlooking his grave is to be used on that day as a temporary pulpit, from which a funcal oration will be pronounced by the eloquent Rev. Luther Lee, D. D., of Chigrin Falls, Ohio, I learn, too, that Wendell Phillips, Rev. H. H. Garnett, and other distinguished public speakers, are expected to be present on the occasion. Numerous friends of the enslaved from Massachnsetts, Vermont and Ohio, have signified their intention to participate in the celebration.

ANOTHER Prous Frand.—A Baltimore exchange states that a young girl about eighteen years of age was accused of having been guilty of some misconduct, which she positively denied, and on being again accused she called upon God to attrike her bilmd if she war not telling the truth. In a momentafter, according to her own statement, a film seemed to pass before her eyes, and in the course of five minutes she was totally blind, and has continued sightless ever since. The afflicted victim of her own implety confessed that she had called upon her laker to justify her in what was a falsehood.

GREAT CONSINATION OF RUBBER INTEREST. A Boston paper says in a late issue. "We hear that a great combination." If the heretofore hostile and pugnacious rubber inscress, both Day and Goodyear, is about to take place. A Dunier of the Hillarmentar Age.—The time of Elizabeth will always be memorable for illustrious characters, for the age of chivalry was not quite gone. The Queen did by no means approve of duelling, but she was so much struck with the following instance of mavery and high resentment, that she called the son of the hobieman who displayed it her young General, and offered to stand godmother to him. Perspins, bord Willoughby, having the gout both in his hands and feel, received a challenge from a person who was searcely his equal in point of rank, and which, being sent at such a time, could not be desired the less imperiment. The high spirited nobleman was much a rasperated, and to prevent a possibility of his courage being called in question, or his nice sense of homor and propriety being clubted, he offered to meet the person with a piece of rapier batween his teeth. The matter, of course, dropped, and the challenger true reparted with contempt by the whole court.

An Englise Loap Maps Man by Marai-mony—Within the last week, says the Lon-don Court Join sai, Lord——, but very recently married, has gone raving mad and extreme measures have been resorted to. It first showed itself by his first holding out threats to his wife, who, at length becoming alarmed, went to her hunbands stater, who is staying at Brighton, to seek her protec-tion. The whole family are in the greatest grief.
